

JACK BOOTS

HOORAY

HA HA HA HA HA HA HA HA

wow not is saying anything!! hidden speakers

Ah, for the Love of the Irrational ^{-ized} Simpletons! ^{bonanza!}

Work's done for Today!

from www.mhamic.org/rind/

The Congressional Censure of a Research Paper: Return of the Inquisition?

in Skeptical Inquirer
Jan. 2000
print out & distribute widely!

Skeptical Inquirer, Jan, 2000 by Kenneth K. Berry, Jason Berry

On July 12, 1999, the United States House of Representatives took an historic step toward censorship of scientific findings when it voted 355 to 0 to condemn and censure a scientific publication because the members disagreed with the findings and believed that they would have a negative effect upon citizens' thoughts and actions.

The paper, published a year earlier in the American Psychological Association's journal Psychological Bulletin (July 1998), by Bruce Rind of Temple University, Philip Tromovitch, and Robert Bauserman was titled, "A Meta-analytic Examination of Assumed Properties of Child Sexual Abuse Using College Samples." This paper was basically a review and analysis of fifty-nine previous research studies of the consequences of sexual molestation of children.

note:
since this was not published in pdf file, there are numerous seeming misspellings, etc.

see also: Judith Levine, ^{Robbie Nathan} Joan Nelson, Felicity G. Smith.

The congressional members found some of the findings personally repugnant, particularly the conclusion that some molested children grow up to be normal and a small portion are seemingly little affected by this experience. The members, especially Rep. Salmon (an Arizona Republican and a sponsor of H.Con.Res.107) believed that the findings would not only encourage pedophilia among United States citizens, but the findings could not be true. The Representatives' thinking appeared to be a demonstration of what Donald Watson (1993) called "Autistic Certainty" ("I would not believe something that was not true; I believe this is not true, therefore this must be untrue").

More deep info found at: www.ipce.info

my own attempt to demystify can also be found here (tho i can no longer update it)

The ~~Book~~ ^{that} came out of this:

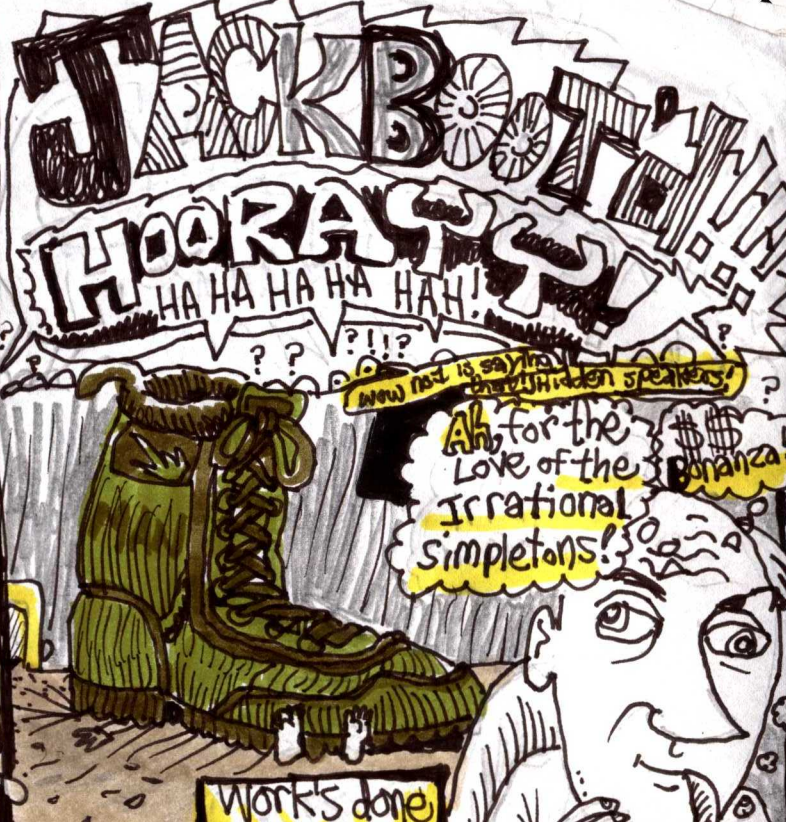

see also:
'Censuring Sex Research' (book)

edited by Verstraete & Hubbard
...A covert way to characterize assassinate.

Takes on this topic in detail, plus similar.

The journal's review of past research was brought to the attention of congressional members by several very vocal, fundamentalist religious voices. Two of these are lobbying groups: the Family Research Council, a group whose primary missions appear to oppose civil rights for homosexuals, advocate celibacy for heterosexuals, and to stop abortions when they are not celibate; and the Christian Coalition, a strong political group with similar goals but with the additional one of doing away with the separation between church and state. Another strong voice was that of radio talk show host Laura Schlessinger, who uses her popular nationally syndicated radio program ("Dr. Laura") as a forum to attack those who do not agree with her personal ideas of morality and religion.

Although this may be the first time in US history that the legislative branch of the federal government has officially condemned and censured a scientific publication, it is not a first in world history. In the thirteenth century there was no separation of church and state in Europe and mysticism prevailed over direct observation of phenomena; Roger Bacon, known for his publications on logic and experimental sciences, was condemned and spent two years in prison. Following this he wrote his final paper, published the year of his death in 1292, which was a caustic critique of the corruption of Christianity. An outspoken supporter of Copernican views of the solar system, Giordano Bruno, was victim of an inquisition (meaning "inquiry"), found guilty of heresy,

Meanwhile, hidden deep inside the trick recesses of the "little gimmick"...

Work's done for Today! Clear the field!

ARE HEREBY INVITED TO BE A GUEST ON THE Penelope Penalty Show! You'll enjoy Two Nights' stay at a Luxury hotel with Limo service, all Free* including Meals & deals!! ALL so you might reach many more people with your message!

with a 10 million estimated viewership! What'ya say?!?

* Read those contracts carefully!

Given a few minutes to decide while the boat is towed away.

I know how these slicksters work!! They're even sneakier than shrinks!
I know we won't get something for nothing.. But..

But hey, what other alternative do we have?

TWO WEEKS LATER
The SHOW MUST GO ON!

This is what show biz is & I'm just a glorified guard dog!

My next guests are the survivors of American Bull Ring, Ltd.!!

Fairly good-looking, eh, Ladies?!
The convicted Homophilic pedophile, Kirby Michael Michaels & his surprise traitorous side-kick, "NOTALIE" Churchgurl.

Welcome to my show! I hope you both filled your guts with all the poisonous sugar & heavy carbs & artificial flavors our sponsors were kind enough to give away to your hotel!!! Snicker!!

Lucky for me, Miss characterized Caring taught me her wry-wry!

Code Tapped. Turn churchgurl's mic DOWN!!!

Jeez, jumping Rite in....

Look, I served out my torture so STOP trying to perpetuate my punishment!
COME NOW, the Recidivism rate is

ALL LIES & HYPE designed to MISLEAD YOU, the strategically challenged!!

